THE JANESVILLE GAZETTE.

VOLUME 24 — JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, MONDAY, MAY 31, 1880. — NUMBER 72

BY THE GOVERNOR OF WISCONSIN.

A Proclamation.

The custom which set apart the thirtieth day of May in each year for special commemoration of the services and sacrifices of the soldiers and sailors to whose unequaled valor and abiding fidelity we are indebted for the preservation of our government and the unity of our nation, has received official recognition in Wisconsin, and that day has been added to the list of legal holidays, and when it falls on Sunday, the succeeding Monday is a legal holiday.

In deference to this provision of law, and in order to secure the cooperation of all classes of citizens in the memorial services appropriate to the occasion, the orders heretofore issued from the National and Department Headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic, designating Saturday, May 29th, as the Memorial Day for the current year, have been modified, and the members of that organization advised to observe the succeeding Monday.

Therefore, I, WILLIAM E. SMITH, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do recommend that the patriotic men, women and children in this State unite to keep and observe as a memorial holiday in fact.

Monday, the 31st Day of May, instant,

We owe it to ourselves, to our country, to posterity, and, above all, to the memory of the patriot dead, to strew with the choicest of spring flowers the grave of every Union soldier in Wisconsin, and thereby bear public testimony that the names and fame of our dead heroes have not faded from our remembrance, but endure and shall endure throughout all coming years, even as the flowers appear and reappear in never-ending succession.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done
[L. S.] at the Capitol, in the city of Madison, thirteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty. WILLIAM E. SMITH.

By the Governor:
HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago, Wednesday, the 2d day of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.

Republicans, and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominee of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the Convention.

J. D. CAMERON, Chairman.
THOMAS B. KEOGH, Secretary.

If the Chicago Convention do its work well and in a spirit of comparative harmony, the Democrats will be more bitterly disappointed than they were when the war went against them from 1861 to 1865.

The anti-Tilden men are again circulating the report that the old man is not a candidate. When the Cincinnati Convention meets, he will put another twist on these men. He will show them who is bossing the nomination.

The Hon. Charles G. Williams, of this city, delivered the oration at Gettysburg, on Saturday. It is pronounced one of the best delivered in the National Cemetery since it was dedicated in 1863. More than five thousand people were present and paid close attention to the speaker. Mr. Williams stands foremost among the orators in Congress, and the selection of that gentleman to perform that responsible and honored duty, is a valuable mark of appreciation of his eloquence. Mr. Hazelton, of the Third District, delivered the oration at Arlington Heights.

All the States have had their Conventions, and the roll of the Republican Convention is complete. There are no material changes in the estimates already given in the Gazette regarding the respective strength of the candidates. To be sure General Grant leads off, having 315 votes—64 short of a nomination—providing he is given all that be claimed for him. In this estimate he gets the 42 from Illinois, but only 55 from New York, and 38 from Pennsylvania. This is very generous treatment, and unless some who are pledged to Blaine or Sherman are unconsciously drawn into the whirlwind of the Grant enthusiasm, he can not possibly obtain the nomination on the first ballot. Other estimates, however, but they are made by the friends of Mr. Blaine, give the Senator from Maine 324 on the first ballot and Grant 276. This is reached by giving Grant only 46 from New York and 36 from Pennsylvania, allowing Blaine 9 from Ohio. The estimates made by over-enthusiastic friends of General Grant, give him 411 on the first ballot, and give Blaine only 169. The exercise of a little prudence in making estimates of the strength of the candidates in the Convention, would give Grant probably the 315 on the first ballot and Blaine 272. It is useless to make estimates or indulge in speculations. There is no mind however keen, that can foretell the result of the balloting. The time is near hand, and the public must wait patiently for the result.

THE WHITTAKER CASE.

The Court of Inquiry in the case of Cadet Whittaker has agreed upon a final report, and on Saturday afternoon it was signed by all the members of the Court. This will hardly surprise the public, as there were some very strong circumstantial evidence to convict him of self-mutilation. The finding of the Court is in substance as follows:

1. The Court is unable to believe that such slight wounds as Cadet Whittaker received could have been inflicted by persons in the manner and under the circumstances described by him.

2. It does not see why a man with his surroundings and in his condition and frame of mind, as shown by his own evidence, should have submitted to an assault such as is alleged, without summoning assistance during the assault or immediately thereafter.

3. It believes a person tied as he was and left as he claims to have been left could readily have released himself had he exerted himself to do so.

4. From the testimony of the Post Surgeon and others, the Court is compelled to believe Cadet Whittaker was neither asleep nor insensible when he was examined on the morning of April 6, 1880, but that he was feigning.

5. The Court is not able to discover any motive that any person, other than Cadet Whittaker, could have had in making such an assault, and there is no evidence whatever that any other person did it.

It believes that the hair clipping flesh-cutting, and the binding could all have been accomplished by Cadet Whittaker himself.

The Court then says in its finding:

From the strong array of circumstantial evidence, from testimony of experts in handwriting, and from the conflicting statements of Cadet Whittaker and lack of veracity evinced by him in certain cases during the investigation, as shown by the evidence, the Court is of the opinion that the imputation upon the character of Cadet Whittaker, referred to in the order convening the Court and contained in the official reports of the Commandant of Cadets and Post Surgeon is fully sustained.

The findings of the Court were then forwarded to Washington to be approved by the President and the War Department. If the findings shall be approved Whittaker will be dismissed the Academy or turned over to the civil authorities. When the report was read to General Schofield, he ordered Whittaker arrested, and to be confined in his room until the authorities at Washington had taken action on the findings of the Court.

Whittaker still protests his innocence, and claims that it is a conspiracy to drive him from West Point.

THE MEMORIAL SERVICES.

We hear the drums on our streets again to-day, and behind them marched soldiers and citizens who wended their way to the cemetery to pay a tribute of respect to those who went down to the fields of glory and "found the serenity of death." It was a beautiful sight to see this. Those in the cemeteries who lost their lives in the conflict between Freedom and Slavery lived in historic times. It cost something then to quit the field, the workshop, the store, the office, to leave the wife and the children and mother and sisters to join in the strife for eternal right. Patriotism was no unmeaning word then. It was a time when action was needed, not theory. It was a time when lives and powder were in demand. From 1861 to 1865 the North gave life and money seemingly without stint. From almost every house our flag floated, in almost every house there was some project to help those who marched South, and nearly every home gave a soldier. The people will remember how completely the great events of the time took possession of the public mind. If prayers were made, they were for the country. If measures were inaugurated, they were measures to sustain the government. If songs were sung, they were songs of battle to inspire the soldiers and to spread patriotism among the people. The cherished desire of the North was to save the Union from falling into the hands of the enemies of Liberty and the haters of human Freedom.

Thus it was from 1861 to 1865. And how is it in 1880? The memorial observances of to-day not only in Janesville but in other parts of the country, make prompt reply. Since the war the popular mind and heart have undergone no radical change. The men who visited and decorated the graves of their comrades to-day, would be ready to again defend the government from the assaults of treason. There is no discreditable virulence or fierce memory; no desire for revenge; no eagerness for another war; but there is to day in the North an exact comprehension of the principles for which these dead soldiers died, mingled with some impatience at the turn which affairs in our government have taken within a very few years.

We have heard a great deal about the wounds which the war made being healed, about the fraternal feeling existing between the North and the South, and about how soon the bitterness which the civil conflict created would pass from memory, but facts and common sense tell us that politicians may forget, but it is not so easy for a soldier to forget, if his experience was in Libbey or Andersonville. To-day is an excellent day for making a note of the wide difference between forgetting and forgiving. We may not be savages, but we have not bidden adieu to common sense and ordinary prudence. We cherish only kindly feelings toward the South, but the mind of the patriotic people of the North is made up that it does not care to commit the Ship of State to those hands which so recently sought to wreck it. It is as proper a time now as it ever was to call treason treason, and disloyalty disloyalty; and we can not help to think of rebellion as we thought of it nineteen years ago. The time that has passed since then has not turned falsehood into truth, nor political selfishness into patriotism; and so long as these things continue to be, just so long should the people of the North observe Decoration Day.

"Brave men who fought and died, the people have not forgotten why and for what you fought and died. The flowers which are reverently carried to honored graves may fade, but justice shall smell sweet and the liberty of all men within our borders be kept fresh and fragrant," so that the rising generation of the North may see and know that the blood of heroes has not been shed in vain.

FOUR CANDIDATES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29—Washington City has now two Presidential candidates and two dark hoses, Sherman and Edmunds and Windom. They are all here closely watching the situation, and in constant communication by telegraph with their friends. The two leading candidates, Blaine and Sherman, are but a few minutes' distant from any one in Chicago who wishes to consult with them. Secretary Sherman has had a telegraph instrument placed in his private room in the Treasury Department, and is in regular conference with his managers here. Blaine has a telegraph instrument in his house connecting directly with headquarters in Chicago, and is in constant communication with his management. Blaine is confident, hopeful, cheerful. The dark horses, Edmunds and Windom are here, not at all concerned about their candidacy, but greatly interested in Chicago proceedings.

Edmunds is here, resting at his home on Highland Place, taking no special pains to place himself in easy communication with Chicago. He receives frequent dispatches Senator Windom, too, at his home on Vernen avenue, does not forget that his own State has done him the honor to make him the State's choice. He also is watching the course of events at Chicago with interest.

TILDEN.

BRADFORD, Pa., May 29—The Evening Star of to-day editorially states on the authority of a member of the Pennsylvania State Committee, that C. W. McCune, of the Buffalo Courier, a Tilden member of the New York State Committee, has assured him that Tilden would not be a candidate at Cincinnati.

LIGHTNING TRAINS.

BALTIMORE, May 29—In the face of the active operations at the headquarters of the competing lines it would be idle to claim that the new time schedule of the Baltimore and Ohio road had not made itself felt. Indeed the running of special trains has been inaugurated by rival roads to meet the time made by regular trains, is a new feature in railroading; but the road that opened the ball has no notion of quitting this early, and, specials or no specials, proposes to have the music kept right on to this, and the probabilities are that within the week the Baltimore & Ohio will run two fast time-makers out of Chicago, the morning train leaving, say, at 9 o'clock, reaching Washington at noon the next day, six or eight hours ahead of the fast schedules of other line, and arriving at Philadelphia and New York as quick as the quickest of them. Of one thing everybody may be certain, and that is that the Baltimore & Ohio fast trains are regular trains, and not put on for any special purpose.

GETTYSBURG.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 29 Charles G Williams, member of Congress from Wisconsin, delivered an oration in the National Cemetery here to-day, and was listened too by more than five thousand persons. The ceremony of placing flowers upon the graves followed. The school children scattered the flowers liberally over the soldiers' graves encircling the battle monument.

SUICIDE.

BURLINGTON, May 29—Col John S David, a wealthy pioneer settler committed suicide to-day by shooting himself through the head. He has had poor health for a number of years, and of late has been in a very despondent state, and at times his mind has been affected. He came to Burlington in its early days, and was extensively known throughout this section of the country.

SOMEWHAT SULTRY.

Colonel Gardner Takes an Appetizer Which Increases His Temperature.

From the Cleveland Leader.

There lives in the vicinity of Wooster, down in the wilds of Wayne county, an ancient veteran of the Mexican war who is known as Colonel Gardner. The Colonel has in his declining years applied himself very steadily to the task of paying off the national debt, and the tax on the amount of tanglefoot consumed by him in a year materially augments the internal revenue receipts of his districts. One warm day last summer, his stock of the ardent having given out, the old gentleman mounted his horse and rode to the village drug store to replenish the same. The proprietor of the pill foundry was absent at the time of his arrival, and the assistant was a green country boy, whose knowledge of the drug business was yet to be gained. The Colonel ordered the young man to measure him out a quart of whisky. The youth took down a large jar, the contents of which resembled the desired article in appearance, and filled the bottle, with which the the Colonel rambled off home. On the return of the druggist about an hour after, he took a look at his array of liquids, and inquired of his deputy the name of the person buying so much sulphuric acid. "I didn't sell any acid; the only one in was Colonel Gardner, who came after some whisky," replied the boy.

"What jar did you get it from?" shrieked the excited maker of pills.

"That un," said the apprentice, pointing to the nearly empty jar of acid.

"Great guns! you've pisened him," howled the drugstore man, and seizing his hat, shot down the street toward the Gardner mansion like a special dispatch. On approaching the house he saw the Colonel sitting on the veranda fanning himself vigorously, and ruefully surveying the charred remnants of a newspaper which were scattered about, while the sweat which poured off him formed in little pools about him.

"Hello," gasped the warrior, "what kind of whisky was that you sold me to-day, Johnson? I never see such stuff. I brought it home and took a couple of drinks and sat down here to read the paper, and in about five minutes I began to bile, and the next thing, I'm darned if my breath didn't set the paper afire; I'll have to move my custom if you don't give me a better brand. A man would have to copper line himself to stand that stuff."

Mr. Johnson took what was left of the sulphuric acid and informed the soldier that he would send him down a better quality of liquor in return, and betook himself to his store, marveling at the strength of practiced digestive organs.

John B. Gough.

Most public speakers who have been introduced to their audiences have suffered from the high eulogiums passed upon them beforehand by their misjudging introducers. The natural effect is to arouse expectation that cannot be met, and to produce marked disappointment. John B. Gough relates how he once managed before a London audience to avoid such a result. His introducer pronounced him the greatest orator who had ever lived, and ended a long fulsome eulogy by telling the people to prepare themselves for such a burst of eloquence as they had never before listened to. Gough, knowing that the best effort he had ever made would, under such circumstances, fall far short of anticipation, determined to practice a ruse, and the ruse was to affect stupidity. He opened by stammering and hesitating, by beginning his sentences and leaving them unfinished, until, as he said, the worst speaker in England could not have done worse. He soon overheard those on the platform whispering their disapprobation and censure, one man saying, "O, this will never do here, you know. It may all be very well in America, you know, but in England, you know, it is quite a different thing." He still continued in his dull, disconnected way until he had seen that he had a background for his verbal pictures. Then he gradually adopted his natural manner, and as sentence after sentence rolled out vivid and resonant from his lips, his audience grew enthusiastic, and fairly roared with applause. He had never been more rapturously greeted than he was then and there. Those who heard him declared that they had never known a man to change so after he had once warmed up.

Nevada's first nugget was mined with a butcher's knife. John Orr started across the plains in 1849. The roads were bad, the weather was worse, and he was obliged to remain through the winter at Salt Lake. In April he resumed his journey. He had a partner named Nick Kelly, after whom Kelly's Ravine is named, and in the company was William Prouse, now living in Nurb City, about forty miles southeast of Salt Lake. Prouse had worked in mines before gold was discovered in Coloma, and was a good prospector. One day the train stopped on the edge of what is now known as Gold Canon, near the Carson River, to let the animals feed on some bunch grass found growing among the sage brush. Prouse at noontime took a milk pan, and going down to the gulch began washing dirt, in a few minutes getting color to the value of a few cents. Orr then named the place Gold Canon. The train then resumed travel, going to the head of the Carson Valley. They then met a party of seven who had left the train at the sink of the Humboldt, intending to go in advance to California and select good locations for the other members of the party. They had been unable to cross the country, and had been lost in the snow in the mountains for four or five days, unable to find the divide to Hangtown. A stay in Carson for three weeks followed, when Orr, Kelly and several others returned to Gold Canon and resumed prospecting. Kelly and Orr went up the canon until a little fork was reached, when work was begun. The party had few tools and Orr had nothing but a knife. While Kelly was working he noticed a very narrow place at the fork where the water barely covered a slab of slate rock. Idly he examined it, noticing a small crevice the edge, drove the knife into it breaking out a piece. The water running over it washed away the underlying dirt, in a few seconds he discovered a gold nugget where the rock had covered it. It was quickly removed, and afterward found to weigh $8.25. This was on the 1st of June, 1850, nearly thirty years ago. Prospecting was continued, and though gold dust was found in places throughout the canon, Orr's was the only nugget. He still has it in his possession, the first ever found in Nevada.

SHORT STORY.

Some six summers since, sagacious Shadrach S. Stevens, suddenly suspended several stupendous speculative schemes. Seeing stocks so steadily sinking, scarcely salable, Shadrach swore severely, saying such stagnation, such shocking stringency staggers sharpest speculators.

Sarah Stevens, Shadrach's sole surviving, self-satisfied, sedate, spinster sister, sat serenely stitching some showy slippers; suddenly she started, screaming—"Stop! such swearing shocks scrupulous sensibilities; suppress such sinful speeches!"

Shadrach stood stone-still some sixty seconds, silently surveying spunky, sharp-spoken sister Sarah. Summer showers soon subside; so sparkling sunshine soon supersedes sullen stormful skies. Shadrach and Sarah sensibly seek Wheelock's spacious, superbly supplied store, strolling Main street, seeing storm sign, Shadrach and Sarah sauntered in,

Smooth-spoken, sensible salesmen, smilingly salute stately Sarah. She selects superb Soup-tureens, Saucers, Supper Setts, Sauce-boats, Salads, Sweepers, Silver-ware, Swinging-baskets, splendid Seramics; Shadrach secures Safety-lamp, servicable Spoons, Shears, Scissors, Shaving-utensils, Superior Statuary [Shadrach sees stately sublimity in statuary], Saltcellars, Syrup pitchers, Soda-tumblers, Sundry Staple Specialities.

Shadrach's spot specie settlements seem satisfactory. Shadrach stopped swearing, stopped sipping stimulative spirits, sensibly saves surplus specie, Shadrach's spouse serenely shares Shadrach's sumptuous surroundings. Satisfaction seems secured!

WHAT AFTER DEATH?

The Transformation of a Soul, as Described by Andrew Jackson Davis.

New York Sun.

"The laws of life beyond the event of death" were considered by Andrew Jackson Davis yesterday, before a large audience, in Steck's Music hall. The speaker said that the change that takes place at death is not in our surroundings, but in ourselves; it is from the realm of sense to the realm of principle. The most wonderful transformation that could be conceived cometh not approach the change that will come over us at death. He had seen what was called an apothesis of George Washington in Laura Keene old theater, and he had heard that extraordinary scenes in transformation had taken place in Niblo's Garden; but not such changes; nor yet such a change as comes over the earth between a black midnight and broad daylight, can convey the notion of the change that is to come to every man at death. The soul could remain here, and yet New York city would look like an entirely different place to it. It would seem as though the heavens were taken off like a roof. But when men attempt to bring spirituality into the world, and form it into religious creeds, then it becomes, as in Beecher's and Talmage's churches, mere paroxysms—only the æsthetics of temporary delight, an emotional religion that brings its penalties with it. We need not change our position geographically after death to be in our proper sphere. The spiritual world is all about us, and after death we shall be a part of it. Plato saw that an idea precedes every created thing But the trouble with the world is not understanding this is that it wants to materialize everything before it can be believed. The spiritualists so called, attempt to satisfy this demand by bringing materialized forms from dark cabinets, and of course, the result is a failure, because the whole action has a downward, demoralizing tendency. The state hereafter may be likened to the ocean and ourselves to rivulets running into it. What is the trouble that this is not seen by multitudes, and that everything looks black after death? Simply because they stop at the shore of the ocean, and are eating clams and drinking beer. Want of principle leads men to shake off the ills of this world and try to run the gate of death. How do they know that they will be better off in the next world than this? A man jumps from the pier into the East river, and discovers immediately the Gehennal abyss of the folly of his act. He sees that, either in twenty-four hours' time, or in a week at remotest, help was at hand for him. The speaker told how poor he had been. He had lived for a long time in this city on $5 a week. He pulled from his pocket a letter from a lawyer in Michigan telling him that he had fallen heir to $500, given him by a woman for carrying on his work and publishing his philosophy. The suicide he added, finds himself face to face with an eternal judge on a throne, viz., Principle, and, in profound and sacred silence the suicide is judged. Adverse circumstances can never drive a man to suicide; he drives himself to the act.

The other evening as A B Davis, of Winnebago City, Faribault county, was returning from Iowa, where he had sold a prove of cattle for $2,500, he was stopped near the State line by three men who commanded him to throw up his hands and surrender. A B Davis, who is an old ex-sheriff, knew that meant business, and with great presence of mind, threw up his hands, but in doing so he clucked his package of money and threw it over his head into the grass, unnoticed by the robbers. The men then searched him and not finding any money as they expected, they treated him terribly and left him more dead than alive. He succeeded in getting to a house, and the next day search was made for the money and it was found.

GROWTH IN THE GRAVE.

The Appearance of a Corpse Three Years After Burial.

From the Pittsburg Leader.

A Lawrenceville physician was brightening up his memory on Gray's Anatomy, the other evening, when a reporter entered his office.

"Any items you have doctor, that will interest the public I'll be glad to jot down." was the Leader man's way of opening the colloquy.

"I have nothing that is very recent, particularly startling, but while I was reading here I recalled a story told me some time ago by Mrs. Fraunholtz, who keeps the Holly Tree Inn, up here on Penn avenue, which, I think, you may weave into an interesting article, and one that will be read with a relish by most everybody."

"Indeed!"

"Yes. The widow Fraunholtz informed me that in '72 her husband John met his death by being kicked by a horse. He was in his fiftieth year when he died yet not a gray hair could be found in his head nor in his beard. It was widely remarked around that darker hair than his no man ever wore, and John was always scrupulous to have, his hair and whiskers closely cropped. He was buried, poor fellow, in St. Mary's cemetery, and clods were shoveled on his coffin in the presence of a large gathering of mourners. There wouldn't have been anything out of the usual procession of of events about, but his widow relates that somewhere along about three years afterward she ordered grave stones to keep alive the memory of her deceased husband, and when the men whose business it is to lay these monuments began digging for a good foundation, she instructed them to delve down deep before putting the head stones in place. They did; and in fact, went down so far that they uncovered the rough box lid. This being reached, they thought it wouldn't be a bad idea to push the lids of it and the inside casket aside and see what change had come over the dead in three years underground. At the head of the inside coffin there was a movable lid extending one-third the entire length, and under it was a cover of glass. This was swung around, and they gazed upon the placid face of the occupant who was so gentle in life that he left few enemies behind. There were no visible marks of decay, the expression and color had not changed from what they were when John sat with his family at table and enjoyed his meals; his features were slightly swollen and his face was full and round. Down over his shoulders hung a large growth of beautiful hair, as black as jet, and his beard had grown down so far along the lid of the casket that the end of it wasn't visible. It was bushy, and also of a deep dark color. We read about such things, but I believe," concluded the doctor, "I never met any person until I met Mrs. Fraunholtz who was an eye witness of such a picture."

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.
It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.
It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.
It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.
It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.
It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.
Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.
LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.
One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.
It makes bread whiter and richer.
More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.
The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.
Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.
This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.
It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious
BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.
A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

GRIEF.

EXCESSIVE ANXIETY, or PROLONGED STUDY, will produce infirmity in the Nervous System, in proportion as the strength of the system is expended upon the mind in troubled thought, so are the organs of digestion, assimilation and nutrition, rendered inactive and sluggish in proportion as the system becomes infirm. Every individual has some one organ weaker than the rest and this is always the first to suffer during nervous prostration; for example, afflicting more sometimes causes total suspension of the muscular action of the heart, when the patient is debilitated, producing sudden hemorrhage and death. No doubt any longer remains of the practibility of restoring the nervous system, and through the nerves the muscles of the impaired organs. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has been proved to possess such power in numerous instances. It will impart strength to overcome trouble and affliction. Persons who are accustomed to look upon the dark side, and who see no pleasure in living, on using this Syrup soon learn to value and enjoy life, and those who have any deeply curing, long hours, will find in the Syrup a promoter of the power of endurance in the brain.

There is no absurdity in the fact that an impaired Nervous System causes Consumption, Neuralgia, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Asthma, Epileptic Fits, Whooping Cough, Heart Disease and a host of others; then why is it absurd that Fellows' Hypophosphites, which effectually cures Nervous Debility, should cure these diseases also. "Remove the cause and the complaint will cease."

☞ Look out for the name and address, J. F. FELLOWS, St. John, N. B., on the yellow wrapper in water mark, which is seen by holding the paper before the light.

Head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb, and blood affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scrofula, heumatism, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, &c.

Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

New Orleans has shipped to France and Italy within a year 2,400,000 gallons of cotton seed oil.

The cotton mills at Carrollton, Miss have been bought by one King, a Georgia manufacturer, who will add 200 operatives to the working force.

The reaction in the iron trade has caused a suspension of the departments of the Fall River iron works, excepting the flat mill and moulding department.

The iron manufacturers have diminished the importation of British iron by lowering prices. They have thus stimulated many industries without impoverishing themselves.

Philadelphia contains 103 district iron factories, giving employment to nearly 12,000 hands, without including those employed at the Baldwin locomotive works—about 2,000 more.

A San Francisco firm advertises as follows: "Having just taken the proper steps to protect our goods from being imitated, we hereby caution all parties from purchasing or selling the same, as otherwise suit will be entered against them."

The Cleveland, Oswego county, glass works produce montly 3,000 boxes of window glass, employ 100 men, consume 400 tons of coal, 200 cords of wood, 125 tons of sand, 45 tons of soda ash, 30 tons of lime, 10 tons of German clay for crucibles, and other articles in proportion.

The extent to which iron has superceded wood in the building of ships in England, appears from the following: In 1850, 12,000 tons of iron ships were made; in 1860, 64,699 tons; in 1870, 272,000 tons of iron ships against 100,000 tons of wood; in 1878, 400,000 tons of iron ships, and scarcely any wooded ships were constructed.

A Savannah paper rejoices in the rapid increase of the vegetable trade of Southern Georgia and Florida. A few years ago, it says, a few hundred crates were considered a large shipment, and now the exports are counted by the hundred carloads and shiploads. One day last week ten carloads of vegetables, nearly all cucumbers, arrived over the Savannah, Florida and Western railway, and were shipped to New York.

Among the food exports of America, which have attained so remarkable a growth during the past half dozen years, oysters hold an honorable place. In 1875 a few barrels of them were sent to England as an experiment; the following year, upward of forty thousand barrels; the year after, upward of fifty thousand barrels; in 1878, nearly eighty thousand; in 1879, ninety thousand; while the present year will probably show an export of a hundred thousand barrels, worth half a million of dollars. The Berlin fair may help to open a good market for American oysters on the continent of Europe.

It is the opinion of well informed business men in the city of New York that the accumulation of available capital in the metropolis is greater now than it has ever been before. Trade is active in almost all departments. The hotels are crowded with guests from the interior, and the prospects are excellent for a busy season. The principal danger to be feared is reckless speculation induced by an easy money market, which is maintained in large part by disbursements from the treasury in payment of interest and the purchase of bonds for the sinking fund.

It is stated that owing to the decline in the iron market about 90 small pig iron furnaces have blown out within the last fortnight. Operations are being suspended or curtailed in other branches of the iron trade, also. The boom which so greatly agitated this industry a few months ago has subsided and reaction has come. A dispatch from Pittsburg to the Chicago Tribune says: "Mr. Morehead, of the Vesuvius iron works, said this morning that business is in a more demoralized condition than he ever knew it to be before. The nail department of the Vesuvius works went into operation this morning. The puddling department and the bar mill are idle. The firm have very few orders on hand. All the nail mills resumed operations this morning. The six weeks' suspension reduced stocks to the amount of 650,000 kegs. The tendency of the iron market is downward, and there will have to be a reduction at all the blast furnaces. The business of eight months was crowded into the four months commencing with November, and experienced iron masters can account for the present lull upon no other theory. A shut-down now, it is predicted, will make a lively and profitable trade in the fall."

JENNY LIND.

An Interview with the Peerless Songstress.

London Letter in Philadelphia Telegraph.

Then, too, the other day I had the pleasure of reviving the memories of the supremest art delight that I have ever enjoyed. I went to call on Jenny Lind. The unforgotten Swedish prima donna, who, for so many years has sung no more, lives in a spacious and charming mansion in a retired nook in South Kensington, a very grove for the nests of song birds, by the way, for Albani lives but a few doors off, and more than one of the passenger warblers take up their residence habitually in this pleasant quarter. Embowered by trees and flowers, the home of Jenny Lind looks just fitted to be the peaceful retreat for one who has drained to the very dregs the world's intoxicating cup of honors and applause. In the elegant drawing-room, hung with pictures and tastefully decorated with old china, artistic draperies etc., I found a lady whose blue eyes and kindly smile bore me back at once over the waste of some thirty years. Again I sat, an eager, excited school girl, glowing with anticipation, on the verge of my first great art delight. I saw once more before me the tall, slender figure in its white satin draperies, with green leaves and diamonds adorning the abundant fair hair, and the olden thrill creeps over me that heralded the first notes of that marvelous, that incomparable voice, whose tones were to those of the velvet-throated Patti or the silver-voiced Nilson as the Regent compared to the diamonds of a Duchess. Never shall I forget how old men, who knew just as much about music as they knew about Sanscrit, used to sit with the tears streaming down their cheeks while Jennie Lind was singing. "I know that my Redeemer liveth!" There she stood before me, the unforgotten idol of my girlish idolatry, changed, indeed, by a lapse of years, yet still unmistakably the Jenny Lind of old. The abundant brown hair, with a few lines of silver amid its locks, was turned under in the peculiar fashion in which she always wore it, and the eyes are lovely as ever in their expression and in their soft depths of lustrous blue. As she talked, her gloved hands lay clasped upon her knee in the easy, graceful pose that was familiar to us in the Swedish songstress years ago. I called her attention to the fact, and she smiled at my remembering the attitudes and the pretty German monosyllable, "sol" which used to be another of the little peculiarities that we noticed and loved because they were hers, escaped from her lips. A grand piano in one corner of the room, and a large three-quarter length portrait of herself, painted at the height of her renown, recalled her past queenship in the realms of song. She was handsome yet plainly dressed in a rich black silk, closed at the throat with coral buttons, a shawls of old Cluny lace was draped around her shoulders, and she wore a very simple cap of fine old Venetian guipure. She spoke in warm terms of affection of United States, not in preference to the welcome and the worship it had accorded to her in bygone years, but because as she said in her quaint English that had such a charm about it, "Your country takes the rabble of all other countries and gives them all a chance." I spoke of the fact that when she sang in America there were no opera houses there. "And of that I was glad," she remarked, "for I quitted the stage, and it was for that reason that I was anxiouious to go to the United States, since there I would have no temptations to return to it." I also spoke of the intense sympathetic quality of her talent, and the marvelous power that she possessed of swaying her audiences at will, particularly in devotional music. Something of the old beautiful rapt expression came into her eyes as she answered: "It was because my voice came from God and I sang to God." And so I took my leave of her and went away, with all tender and exquisite memories of the divine joy that the voice of the greatest of all great singers had ever given me nestling warm about my heart. I felt like one who would seek out a cage wherein a nightingale had once sung to enchant the world, and finding the bird gone, would find in its stead a single snow-white lily. The wondrous voice had departed, but the woman, by purity and sweetness and lofty intelligence that lent half its charms, remains unchanged.

"And her soul it is that singeth, while her voice remaineth silent.
"And the music of its singing is immortal as the stars."

A lady whom I met during my recent visit to Versailles told me of an incident that once occurred to her in Darmstadt apropos of Jenny Lind. The great Swedish singer, then in the height of her powers and her fame, was engaged to sing at a concert in that city. My friend and her husband arrived at the hotel soon after nightfall on the evening preceding that appointed for the concert. They were met by the landlord, who informed them that Jenny Lind was then rehearsing her principal songs in the drawing room, that the windows were open and that if they liked to step into the garden they might hear her. Just as they entered the garden one of those long, liquid tuned trills whereof the secret vanished with the voice of Jenny Lind, broke on the stillness. As it sunk into silence, a nightingale amid the bushes, startled from its melody, took up and answered the strain. The effect was magical.

As I turned from the guarded portal that opens to so few, I could not but realize how wisely the great prima donna had acted in passing from the world before the knell of her popularity had sounded; before thinning audiences and carping critics had borne witness to her failing powers. She went while there was yet gold to be won and laurels to be gathered, not clutching, as did Grisi, in the melancholy decadence, at the last corn and the latest lingering leaf. The wife and mother glided into place as the great artiste retired. She keeps her hold upon the love and esteem of the good and great. Only on the very day I had called the Princess Helena (Princess Christian) had come to visit her, bringing with her her two young daughters. The name of Jenny Lind is still a household word wherever song is loved or goodness revered. The fine delicate, placid, elderly lady, with silver threaded hair and blue, expressive eyes, happy in her children, and her home, is just the image wherewith one would fain replace that bewildering vision that once called Jenny Lind. It is as though, having once seen a beautiful rose, intoxicating in its summer freshness and sweetness, we should lift the covers of a Bible years after, and lo! the rose! the freshness gone, but all its sweetness lingering still in undiminished fragrance.

LUCY H. HOOPER.

A City of Smoke.

Mulford's Pittsburg Letter.

The view of the bluff is beautiful. Nothing like it on the continent. Three rivers and smoke, nine bridges and smoke, acres of coal barges and smoke, seven church steeples in a huddle and smoke; Pittsburg and Alleghany city in spots and the rest smoke; directly below foundry and rolling mill chimneys vomiting flame or quietly red hot; within the works, occasionally red hot or white hot streaks curving writhing and twisting about in the obscurity of those dingy sheds, suggesting distressed snakes or worms at glowing heat as the bars of iron pass rapidly to and fro between the rollers. Then something like a big ball of fire shoots across a little unroofed space. That's a hapless lot of metal just drawn from the furnace on its way to the great nut cracking jaws, which in a few seconds will give its first semblance to any regular form. Suddenly the chimneys commence pouring out volumes of smoke, as if they had for ever so few minutes been drowsing and were now fully awakened to their work. Just so another group of chimneys farther away wake up and deluge another portion of Pittsburg with smoke. From every point you can see these smoky outpourings. Then a great mass of heavy vapor hangs over a fourth of Pittsburg and squelches it. The breeze dispels it, but the eruption breaks out elsewhere. That's the way Pittsburg is smoking night and day. The smoke of its torment ascendeth forever and ever at present. But here on the bluff all is quiet peaceful and comparatively unsmoked. The fields are of the liveliest green and the scent of the distant apple, cherry and peach blossom fills the air. It must be a paradise to the grim and blackened foundryman who came up with us in the car, dinner-pail in hand, betokening that he has been one of the "night," and whose home is apparently nestled somewhere in these blossoming orchards out of sight and sound of the manufacturing and industrial pandemonium below.

MONDAY, MAY 31, 1880.

Official Paper of the City and County.

DECORATION DAY.

Owing to the day and its observance the Gazette to-day is issued at noon, instead of the usual hour. For this reason we are unable to give our readers the usual amount of telegraphic and local news.

BRIEFLETS.

—Last of May.

—Damp for Decoration.

—Father Doyle hes so far recovered as to be out again, but is still far from being rugged.

—The City Council is to meet to-night, but will probably adjourn until to-morrow evening.

—Next Wednesday night Uncle Tom's Cabin is to be given at Lappin's hall by the Rial & Draper company.

—The new building, to be used for storing the waste from the cotton factory, is rapidly approaching completion.

—H. S. Woodruff is building a large addition to his barn, and making it more roomy and convenient than ever.

—William Jones, charged with resisting an officer, has been held to the Circuit Court in the sum of $300. He gave bail.

—The rain prevented any meeting of the Round Table Saturday night, there being only three or four members present.

—Rev. B. Smeddinck, who is now acting as pastor of St. Mary's church in this city, is a linguist, and speaks nineteen different languages.

—Amount of orders business for week ending, May 29th, 1880: 106 orders issued; amount $1078 68; 78 orders paid; amount $1133.98; total $2,212.66.

—Those who want to visit Ireland, can do so for a merely nominal sum to-night, by going to Lappin's Music hall and seeing Sullivans' new mirror of Ireland and his comedy company.

—There promises to be a large attendance at the Congregational church to-morrow evening at the musical recital to be given by the pupils of Mrs. St. John and Prof Titcomb.

—To night Homer D. Cope appears at the Opera house under the acspices of the Knights of Pythias. He will render entirely from memory the five acts of "Damon and Pythias," and personates fourteen different characters. He comes here with high recommendations and flattering press notices, and will no doubt give a pleasing entertainment.

—The Florence Herbert company drew a good house Saturday night in spite of the rain. The parquette was well filled and some seats in the dress circle taken. The play was fully in keeping with the others presented, and won much applause. Last night the company left for Racine, where they are to appear this week.

—The great pyramids of Egypt have attracted so much attention, and caused so much discussion, that every intelligent person is desirous of knowing more about them. Dr. Everett W. Fish, of Chicago, who has studied the matter long and thoroughly, is to be at Cannon's hall next Wednesday evening, prepared to tell many new things about these wonders.

—The funeral services of the late Charles G. E. Veeder were held yesterday afternoon, and were largely attended. Rev. T. P. Sawin officiated, and made some very tender and befitting remarks. A quartet consisting of Mrs. St. John, Mrs. Conrad, and Messrs. Wingate and Titcomb rendered appropriate music. The bearers were J. L. Croft, C. B. Conrad, F. F. Prentice, T. S. Nolan, C. H. Patterson, and H. W. Tilton. A very large number of sympathizing friends followed the remains to their resting place in Oak Hill cemetery.

Newly furnished, everything the best, ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK.

CRUMBS FROM THE CHURCHES.

At the Presbyterian church yesterday morning Rev. J. E. Rockwell, D. D. of Stapleton, Long Island, preached an excellent sermon. The church was elaborately decorated with flowers and plants, in honor of the centennial of the Sabbath school work, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Presbyterian church and Sunday school in this place. The Sunday school exercises were arranged especially for the day and were very interesting bringing out in a pleasing manner a historical showing of the origin and growth of the work. Dr. Rockwell gave an address, and the other exercises reflected great credit on all connected with the school.

Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Chapell occupied the Baptist pulpit as usual, but in the evening the Presbyterians united in a service, at which Rev. J. E. Rockwell D. D., preached from the text, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?"

At the Congregational church Rev. C. H. A. Buckley, of Port Henry, N. Y., occupied the pulpit. He was the first pastor of that church, thirty years ago, and was warmly welcomed both by the old settlers who remembered him, and by those who knew him only by name.

At Court Street church in the morning Rev. Dr. Huntley gave an address in behalf of Lawrence University, and the cause of education. A collection of $100 was the financial endorsement which the talk met with.

Yesterday afternoon in Cannon's hall the Young Men's Christian Association observed their thirteenth anniversary. The Secretary's report was presented showing a growing condition, there having been twenty-one new members added during the past year. N. Dearborn presented the plan of work laid out for the coming year. Rev. S. C. Thomas, Rev. Dr. Rockwell, Hon. James Sutherland and State Secretary Lewis, gave brief and strong addresses, and good music was provided.

HARMONY.

—Mr Rice has raised his tobacco barn and when finished will make a decided improvement to his place.

—Again we have to record another death among us, this time little Merta Wilcox. She has been a great sufferer for some time with the typhoid pneumonia. The bereaved mother, brother and sister have the sympathy of all. She was a beautiful and affectionate child, and the idol of the family.

SOME HISTORY ABOUT THE DECORATION OF GRAVES.

Joseph Bingham, the learned English minister of the Anglican church of Hanton, England, published in the commencement of the 18th century a book on "Antiquities of Christendom" in which he speaks about the decoration of the graves in the first ages of Christendom. He mentions the heathen customs, which the Christians improved,—that is, as the heathen had revived the Hebrew customs, so the Christians Christianized and corrected their abuses. Already the heathen Emperor Justinian found it necessary to give laws against too much pomp in decorating graves. The old custom of the collecting of money, as we read in the Old Testament—in order to offer sacrifices for the dead soldiers, was wasted, instead of sending the collected money to the temple of Jerusalem, for sacrifices. The abuse prevailed by and by, to put great sums of money, even all the jewels, etc, with the coffins of the dead in the grave. Fl. Joseph, the Jewish historian, tells us that the rebel Hircanus robbed the grave of the King David of 3,000 talents of gold. The Christians decorated the graves of the martyrs in the first ages with trophies, more or less costly, according to circumstances and time. In the old cemeteries of Naples, Rome, etc., we find grave stones with a simple sign—a cross, a column, etc., or ornamented with an altar, oratorium. and later with a church built over the graves of the martyred, soldiers of Christ. Not seldom the Christians waked all night near their beloved neighbors with burning lights, not as the Gentiles did in superstitious custom to inquire from the spirit of the dead future events, but with the devout intention of honoring the glorious martyr, and to implore his intercession, at the throne of his victorious master in heaven. Roses and other flowers were put upon the graves as signs of the victory over death. The church authority in peace with the Christian Emperor Constantine, instituted, as Bingham, proves, the order of Copites, whose number in Constantinople was 1,300, to take care of the graves and their decoration.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—Some three weeks ago Mr Addison Brightman, who lives near Charley Point, Lake Koshkonong, was quite seriously injured by his team, a pair of mules, running away, the wagon catching him between a tree, and the wheels breaking several ribs, and otherwise injuring him severely. He is recovering, however, and is able to be out again.

—Mr Nat Kidder and Eleck McCulloch, are spending pigeon season over in Michigan, gobbling up the birds.

—Mr John Hill, of Monroe, spent a few days visiting friends here, while recovering from a severe sickness.

—Mr Daniel Johnson has sold his farm, three miles north of this village, to Mr Michael Henffman.

—Mr Warren Thorpe has completed his new house, opposite Mr Bliss', on the corner of Vernal Avenue and the Janesville street.

—A committee composed of Mr Paul, S C Carr and C Cornwall have decided to hold a trial of mower, reaper and self binder machines, near Milton Junction as soon as grass and winter grain is ready Dealers in such machines are invited to compete.

—The Sabbath sbhools of the several S D B churches of Southern Wisconsin have decided to hold a union celebration and picnic at some central point, probably Taylor's point on July 4th.

—Quite a number of our citizens have intended to attend the National Convention at Chicago this week, but the uncertainty of securing tickets to the convention will deter some from going.

—Oviatt & Davis of this place are the owners and manufacturers of a new patent washing machine, that seems to be meeting with a good deal of favor where they have been introduced.

—Mrs F W Ellis, of Milton, is running a millinery shop in the upper front rooms of Mr Henry Baker's residence, two doors east of Button & Bro store.

Pretty and Young.

in every feature but the hair, which had grown white from fever. This lady at 35 writes us: "I have used Parker's Hair Balsam six months and am more than pleased with it. It has restored the natural brown color of my hair and given it a silky softness, nicer than ever before. There is no Dandruff, no falling hair, and it leaves the scalp so clean and nice and cool that I am ever so much pleased, and I feel and look like myself again." The beautiful, fresh and vigorous hair it produces, together with its property of restoring gray or faded hair to the natural youthful color, and entirely freeing the head from dandruff and itching, surprises no less than it pleases. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cents and $1 00 by all first class druggists.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS TO-DAY.

O yes, so well, so tenderly,
Our boys and girls we raise,
They lead us by our noses round,
In all their selfish ways.

When e'er we tell them what to do,
If they don't want to mind,
All quietly and placidly,
We bow and go behind!

If Pa is rich and Ma is grand,
The faster down the hill,
These naughty children onward go,
By having their own will.

They're always after something new,
And never satisfied;
And everything they seek to do
Is dropt as soon as tried.

The boys will let their fathers toil,
Each day with all their might,
To feed and clothe them, while each wants
A quarter every night!

The girls will let their mothers work,
Till shadows they become,
If they can only dress and flirt,
And have a little fun!

Our Janesville girl—O mercy heav'n!
Outdoes in dress and air
Down in that mighty burg, New York,
Its school girl millionaire!

The phantom pleasure ever chased
Is a delusive thing,
But they can never let her go,
Until they feel her sting.

Now pray, what kind of workers make,
Such pretty boys and girls?—
The first don't earn their daily salt,
The last may prink her curls!

I love the boy who's proud of work,
In any kind of dress;
I love the girl who dare be seen
In suds without distress!

More rich and bright and beautiful
Than diamonds in the light,
They shine on earth, in heaven shine,
As stars forever bright!

'Tis awful! O I'd like to see,
Some other state of things,
Where Pa and Ma somebody are,
Whose word obedience brings.

But less I'll scold the boys and girls.
Each father plays the fool,
And what is worse—the mothers need
Once more to go to school!

The devil seems to run the thing,
Much after his own way,
In spite of ministers and prayers—
So I will say good day!

May 26, 1880. W. D. H.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.

Thirty Years a Sufferer.

Gentlemen: For more than thirty years I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia and piles. I have been frequently under medical treatment, and have tried various preparations which have been recommended to me, but received no permanent relief. In January last I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP and after taking three bottles of it I became perfectly cured of the dyspepsia and piles; and my general health is now all that I can desire it to be. CATARRH

IS IT CURABLE?

THOSE who have suffered from the various and complicated forms of disease assumed by Catarrh, and have tried many physicians and remedies without relief or cure, await the answer to this question with considerable anxiety. And well they may; for no disease that can be mentioned is so universally prevalent and so destructive to health as Catarrh. Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, and serious and frequently fatal affections of the lungs follow, in many instances, a case of simple but neglected Catarrh. Other sympathetic affections such as deafness, impaired eyesight, and loss of sense of smell, may be referred to as minor but nevertheless serious results of neglected Catarrh, bad enough in themselves, but as nothing compared with the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs likely to follow.

IT CAN BE CURED.

IT can be cured. There is no doubt about it. The immediate relief afforded by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is but a slight evidence of what may follow a persistent use of this remedy. The hard, incrusted matter that has lodged in the nasal passages is removed with a few applications; the ulceration and inflammation subdued and healed; the entire membranous linings of the head are cleansed and purified. Constitutionally its action is that of a powerful purifying agent, destroying in its course through the system the acid poison, the destructive agent in catarrhal diseases.

A COMPLICATED CASE.

Gentlemen.—My case is briefly as follows: I have had Catarrh for ten years, each year with increasing severity. For nine years I had not breathed through one nostril. I had droppings in the throat, a very bad cough, asthma so bad as to be obliged to take a remedy for it at night before being able to lie down and sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so full of catarrhal matter as to injure my sense of hearing and compel me to get up several times in the night to clear it and my throat before I could sleep. Every one of these distressing symptoms has disappeared under the use of not quite three bottles of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. My hearing is fully restored. I have no asthmatic symptoms, no cough, no droppings in the throat, no headache, and in every way better than I have been for years. I could feel the effects of the CURE on my appetite, on my kidneys, and, in fact, every part of my system. What has been done in my case is wholly the effect of the RADICAL CURE. Very respectfully,

PITCHBURG, Oct. 14. C. H. LAWRENCE

REMOVAL!

AND GREAT

CLOSING OUT SALE

OF

$75,000 WORTH

DRY GOODS, MILLINERY & CARPETS.

McKey & Bro.

Having leased for a term of years the building now being ereoted by A. P. Bennett, Esq., on the corner of Milwaukee & River streets in this city, WILL COMMENCE IMMEDIATELY the greatest closing out sale ever known in the mercantile annals of Wisconsin.

Description of McKey & Bro.'s New Store.

The block will be 42 feet in front by 130 feet in depth, three stories high with a basement. It is to be built of Milwaukee pressed brick with Joliet cut sand stone trimmings, and when finished it will be the handsomest building in the city.—McKEY & BRO. will occupy the whole of the first story and basement. The front will be finished in black and gold, with French plate glass windows. A series of circular windows over the shelving on the River street side will furnish a uniform volume of light for the whole store.—The counters and shelving are to be made after the most approved modern designs. The front of the store, 100x42, is to be used for the display of Dry Goods and Millinery, while the Carpet department will occupy the rear part, 30x42, raised three steps above the front level. The basement with a high ceiling and admirably lighted by numerous windows in front and rear, and along the River street side will be utilized for storage and wholesale purposes. The office will be in the southwest corner, and is to be provided with a fire proof vault and appropriate furniture. This will be, when completed, the most elegant mercantile establishment in the State, and having been built expressly for a first class Dry Goods Store, without regard to expense, it will be absolutely perfect in all its appointments.

TO THE PEOPLE!

Having concluded to open their new store with an entirely fresh stock of goods, McKey & Bro. have determined to CLOSE OUT in the meantime every dollar's worth of DRY GOODS, MILLINERY and CARPETS now on hand.

This sale is absolutely peremptory and will involve the GREATEST SACRIFICE of goods ever known in the West. McKey & Bro. fully realize the necessity of outting down prioes in order to effeot so large a sale in so short a time. They will, therefore, ootemporaneously with the publication of this announcement make a general and oomprehensive reduotion in prioes in every department of the house.

Every person in Rock county needing supplies of Dry Goods, Millinery or Carpets is invited to participate in the benefits of this great sale. No such opportunity is likely to occur again IN THE LIFE TIME of any one now living. This is no humbug gotten up for diversion or to deceive the people, but is on the contrary a BONA FIDE sale, made imperative by the circumstances already narrated. Every Mechanic, Artisan, Farmer and everybody engaged in business or professional pursuits can and ought to save money by buying their goods of McKey & Bro. during the next 60 days. The store now occupied by McKey & Bro., being Nos. 24 and 26 Main street, is to rent from and after September 1, 1880.
